February 25, 20210

Vidhyapati Mishra and Indra Timsina of Bhutan News Service have prepare this report and submitted to Global Human Rights Defense through Bhutanese Community in the Netherland

Introduction

Following the fire outbreak that destroyed dozens of huts in Beldangi-I camp on January, Bhutan News Service, Kathmandu, took a humanitarian initiative to collect cash donation from resettled Bhutanese in various countries, their community organizations and some potential organizations which have been supporting Bhutanese refugees since years. For proper channelization of donations, Bhutan News Service set up a separate PayPal account in Bhutannewsservice.com and Apfanews.com with an appeal, both textual and audio formats. Several community organization formed by resettled Bhutanese also convinced fellow Bhutanese to extend their helping hands.

Contributions from donors

In a duration of around two weeks, the donations for the fire victims from various countries totaled 185,184 (One hundred eighty five thousand one hundred eighty four Nepalese rupees). The highest donation (6700 NOK) was received from resettled Bhutanese in Norway coordinated by Association of Bhutanese in Norway. This was followed by donations from Bhutanese in Australia.

Global Human Rights Defense (GHRD) also extended its humanitarian donation, through Bhutanese Community in the Netherlands (BCN), to share sufferings of fire victims. GHRD and BCN jointly contributed 300 Euros (28844 Nepalese rupees) for fire victims through Bhutan News Service.

Distribution of cash donation

Bhutan News Service organized a relief aid distribution program on January 19, 2010, in coordination with camp management committee of Beldangi-I camp, and distributed cash donations to 452 fire victims of 76 huts based on the degree of damaged caused by fire and status of the victims. For this purpose, total fire-gutted huts were categorized as:

- Family with burnt or dismantled hut
- Affected family on special needs (eg. disability, vulnerability, etc)
- Family with partial burnt or damaged hut

For addressing the victims in need, the following criteria were adopted in a meeting with camp committee representatives and other volunteers in order to distribute cash donations from GHRD and BCN.

- Nepalese rupees 600 per hut to a family on special need
- Nepalese rupees 58 per person of a family with burnt or dismantled hut
- Nepalese rupees 10 per person of a family with minor damage to hut

Through camp management committee and BNS volunteers, fire victims were asked to gather in a place, near by the hut from where fire broke out. Various guests including representatives from Government of Nepal, Lutheran World Federation, United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, Bhutanese Refugee Women Forum, Camp Management Committee and camp-based Armed Police Force among others were invited as observers.

Camp Secretary, T.B.Gurung, and Manager of Bhutan News Service, Vidhyapati Mishra, delivered short speeches addressing the victims and mode of supports received from various countries. Likewise, Indra Timsina of Bhutan News Service run the event to make it a grand success. They very well briefed the victims on amount of cash donation each person was to receive. Based on the list prepared, head of family was awarded cash donation in an envelope containing denominations. The family head was asked to open it and check for surety. s

Responses from victims

BNS volunteers asked some of the victims on the spot to comment on the cash donations. Most of them were spellbound to make any comments. 'We never expected that our people, who are physically far from us, would extend such supports', they expressed.

For 24-year-old Sancha Man Subba, whose hut was completely damaged by fire, it was a big surprise to see donors with cash grants to help rebuild his hut. He was wordless when Bhutan News Service asked him to share his feelings. Excerpts:

You have been receiving material supports from donors around your vicinity. Today you received cash donations from GHRD and resettled Bhutanese. What is your feeling?

On behalf of fire victims, I appreciate the supports from various countries like Norway, America, the Netherlands, and specially GHRD from the Netherland. We are very much thankful to GHRD and other Bhutanese abroad who have donated for our suffering. They are far but they have understood our problems and supported us. I extend my gratitude to them.

Do you think they have understood your sufferings truly?

Yes, they did. Without knowing our situation, they might not have supported. They contributed cash for supporting the victims. We are really proud that GHRD is supporting us on humanitarian basis. We welcome GHRD in our camps.

For another victim Sabash, GHRD is physically far and has not seen its presence in camp. He expressed his gratitude to GHRD and others since they supported in such a situation when he got his everything including shoes and clothes burnt. 'Even 50 rupees makes a difference when we even don't have a pair of clothes to wear', he said.

BNS distributes cash support to fire victims

Posted on 20 February 2010 by Editor

February 20: Bhutan News Service (BNS) in close coordination with the Camp Management Committee (CMC) in Beldangi-I camp distributed relief package to fire victims in the camp on Friday amidst a special function.

BNS distributed cash donation to fire victims in presence of representatives from the UNHCR, LWF and Armed Police Force. The donation package ranged from Nepalese rupees 1300 to 7000 based on family sizes.

Through online 'call for support', BNS had collected Nepalese rupees 156339.33 from resettled Bhutanese in various parts of the world. Similarly, Bhutanese from Adelaide, Albury, Wodonga and Melbourne of Australia shared their souls by extending monetary cash to the fire victims.

Association of Bhutanese in Norway alone had contributed the greatest amount followed by resettled Bhutanese in Australia. Bhutanese Community of Australia had played crucial role in donation.

On the program, the CMC also distributed Nepalese rupees 32000 cash collected from various camps while the Netherlands-based GHRD and Bhutanese community in the Netherlands also distributed Nepalese rupees 28844 to the fire victims, through representatives of BNS and CMC.

Vidhyapati Mishra of BNS, who reached camp from Kathmandu to distribute the cash support, also handed over 'match box' and 'lighter' as symbols of fire control to camp secretary TB Gurung during the program.

Fire victims highly praised those who managed their hard times to collect the funds. "We are really thankful to Parshuram Luitel in Australia, Ramesh Gautam in Norway, the BNS team, and the entire Bhutanese community in diaspora for extending us support," said TB Gurung during the program.
